The prohibitionists succeed in nothing but raising a rumpus.

We hope the republicans of Ohio will have malaria next fall, and have it severely.

The smash-up in Ohio will have no visible effect on the vitality of the republican party.

General Butler is turning the Massachusetts canvass into a comedy. He acts the part well.

It is put in this way now: "The president and the members of the cabinet are visiting Washington for a short time."

A thought from Ingorsoll: "Mr. Arthur is regarded as a clever man, but he has been vice president, and that's a vice the people will never forgive."

The Harper's Weekly publishes the portraits of the Boston base ball club. No paper is in a mood to the Philadelphia nine the honor of printing their pictures.

Commissioner of Pensions Dudley warns pensioners to beware of the sharks in Washington who are sending out circulars asking pensioners to petition congress for an increase of pensions.

The activity of General Sherman's life will soon come to an end. Next February he will retire, and live a quiet life near St. Louis. "The time will come," says the general "when we decrepit old men will be hauled around in carriages and shown as reliques. It's the way of the world."

Miss Emma Abbott has been very much honored during her visit to Milwaukee. She not only drew crowded houses till standing room was at a premium, but she drew resolutions of thanks from the soldiers home, had the honor of a breakfast from Mrs. Alexander Mitchell, and the marked attention of all the leading people of that city.

They have an oil excitement over in Europe. The London Morning News' correspondent at Baku, says that an oil well has been struck in that place which throws a stream of oil three hundred feet high, and produces 50,000 barrels a day. This is the biggest oil story of the day. The largest oil well ever discovered in Pennsylvania, yielded but 8,000 barrels a day, and this was the greatest production of oil ever known in the world, so that the story of 50,000 barrels a day becomes absolutely incredible.

It is claimed that the Brooklyn Bridge will prove a financial failure. It has been in operation nineteen weeks. Its average earnings have been $26 a day. The total earnings were $69,663, the net receipts being $17,744.92. If the business does not improve the annual net earnings would be about $50,000, whereas the interest charge alone is three-quarters of a million annually. If the receipts in the future do not exceed those of the past five months, the bridge may as well be thrown open to the public, for all the profit there is in it.

It has been frequently said that the democratic party depends very largely upon hard times for its success, and this may be said to be a general truth. Mr. Robert G. Ingorsoll was asked the other day what he thought of the prospects of 1884, and this is his answer:

If the country is prosperous next year, if the crops are good, if prices are fair, if Pittsburgh is covered with smoke, if the song of the spindles is heard in Lowell, if stocks are healthy, the republicans will again succeed. If the reverse is true as to the crops and flocks, and spinners, then the democrats will win. It is a question of "chinch-bugs" and floods and drouths.

A party whose only hope of success springs from hard times, from disasters, "chinch bugs," early frost, and a barren season, is not a party that has a very, very weak place in the affection of the people.

One of the most unfortunate women in the world is Mrs. J. W. Mackay, the wife of the silver king of Nevada. She is to be pitied. She has been beating about Europe for several years, visiting the gayest places on the continent with the gayest company that could be found, trying to spend some of her surplus money. While in Paris, she threw many thousands of dollars in a single reception. Dresses, cloaks, diamonds, and so on, were sold to her at prices that would make a modest millionaire blush, but she drew her checks for them with a smile, and seemed glad to get rid of the money. But she has come with Europe. There is nothing more to buy there than the heart can wish for, and now she has made up her mind to scatter some of her easily gotten gains among the hotels and shopkeepers at Washington. She wants to live in that city to show the best society how to spend money. She has dresses, diamonds, table-ware, pictures, and so forth, in number and quality that will put Washington society all agog. With a democratic congress and Mrs. Mackay, Washington society will be pretty well stirred up the coming winter.

The Snow of Mont Blanc. is not whiter than teeth that are daily rubbed with sozopon, and coral gathered in ocean depths, cannot surpass the hue of gems freed from sponginess by the same salutary agent. American ladies visiting foreign lands, excite the admiration of beholders and the envy of their transatlantic sisters, with the surprising excellence of their teeth. When asked what they owe this charm, they murmur the talismanic word sozopon.

No one can make an analysis of the vote cast for the second amendment in Ohio. It is a puzzle. The vote cast for the prohibition state ticket will not be far from 12,000. There was a general belief that the prohibitory amendment and the prohibition ticket, would run pretty much the same, but in this every body was disappointed. As near as can be learned, the result will be as follows:

For the prohibition amendment.....	$30,000
Against the prohibition amendment.....	425,000
Necessary to carry it.....	312,500
Hence defeated by about.....	92,500
For the first amendment, taxation and regulation.....	100,000

It will be seen from this that the amendment to prohibit the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, will be defeated by something like 60,000 or 65,000 votes. There is no doubt that the republicans voted largely for the prohibitory amendment, and possibly many democrats did by making a trade with the prohibitionists—the latter to vote the democratic state ticket, and the former in return to vote for the amendment. So the result seems to be that the prohibitionists of Ohio have sold themselves for a low price. They have not only defeated the amendment but they have elected a governor and a legislature that are first and last and all the time opposed to temperance reform. One would suppose that the prohibitionists would see by this time that assisting to defeat the republican party is a very thorny and crooked road to prohibition.

We published the other day the findings of a court martial, in which several officers were dismissed from the United States service for conduct unbecoming officers. The findings were referred to the president for his approval, but the sentences in two cases he disapproved. One in particular, was a lieutenant, who was court-martialed because he thought he was in honor bound to marry the woman who, for some time, was his mistress. When the finding was sent to President Arthur he quickly disapproved of the judgment of the court, and set aside the dismissal. For the lieutenant to marry his mistress, under all the circumstances surrounding the case, was about the most gallant thing we have heard coming from a West Pointer for some time. The court seems to have regarded it as no wrong to live with the woman in improper relations, but to "give the honor of a wife," and thus atone for the wrong, was terribly shocking to the moral sense of the court. The wisdom of the president furnished a well-merited rebuke to court-martial. A number of other West Pointers might cover up a multitude of sins by following the example of Lieutenant Simpson.

The states composing New England have done considerable boasting at different times, that they have populated the west—that they have furnished the men and the women who have come to Wisconsin, and to Iowa, Minnesota, Illinois, Indiana, and other prosperous states. But the census shows that the boast of New England has been premature. It has been declared time and time again, that Ohio was dominated by the ideas of New England, but the census tells us that so far as the population is concerned, this is a mistake. There have settled in Ohio from Pennsylvania, 137,500; New York, 53,600; Virginia, 61,833; New England, 9,082. Illinois received from New York 119,817; Pennsylvania, 88,127; New England, 45,913; Virginia, 25,026. To Iowa New York contributed 22,598; Pennsylvania, 77,284; New England, 28,131; Virginia, 17,278. In Wisconsin, which is in due westward course from New England which migration generally follows closely, the following result is shown: New York, 86,402; New England, 37,598; Pennsylvania, 19,074; and Virginia almost nothing. To Michigan have gone 229,246 people from New York; 37,775 from New England, and 35,837 from Pennsylvania. To Kansas, which is popularly supposed to be a newer New England, Pennsylvania has contributed 59,111; New York, 42,707; New England, 19,302; and Virginia, 17,104. It will be seen from these figures that the New England states play the smallest part of almost any states in the nation in populating the western states and territories.

Why is it so many suffer from rheumatism, aches, pains, kidney diseases, liver complaints, heart affections, etc? It is simply because they will not come and be healed. All disease begin from a want of iron in the blood. This want of iron makes the blood thin, watery and impure. Impure blood carries weakness and distress to every part of the body. Supply this lack of iron by using Brown's Iron Bitters and you will soon find yourself enjoying perfect freedom from aches, pains and general ill-health.

Mr. Peter Eisenberger, Hartman, Wis., says: "Brown's Iron Bitters has cured me of rheumatism of long standing."

Mr. John Peterson, Wilson, Wis., says: "I found great relief from rheumatism by using Brown's Iron Bitters."

Bloodshed Anticipated. Bradford, Pa., Oct. 15.—The Rochester & Pittsburg Railroad will attempt to open their mines near which the striking miners are encamped heavily armed, by force, at seven o'clock this morning. An official of the company makes the statement that the miners will be opened at all hazards. If the miners interfere bloodshed is inevitable. The mines are being guarded by a hundred of Pinkerton's detectives, armed with repeating rifles and revolvers.

A TOWN TERRORIZED.

One Man Shot Dead and Two Seriously Wounded in a New York Village by a Couple of Drunken Toughs.

BRADFORD, Pa., Oct. 15.—Saturday afternoon the village of Flinsdale, in Cattaraugus County, N. Y., was the scene of a most heartless and unprovoked murder. The participants have not yet been obtained. From reports it is learned that Wesley Beards, a white man with a reputed hard character, and negro companion, started in to have a good time. They became badly intoxicated, and while in this condition attempted to run the town. The citizens and constables were afraid to interfere. Beards and the negro paraded the streets, shouting and singing. Beards pulled a revolver and began firing indiscriminately on all sides. The negro also pulled a pistol and fired right and left. One of the bullets struck Mr. Bailefield, a merchant, and a member of the firm of Bailefield & Horner. A dispatch received here says that he died at eleven o'clock Saturday. A teamster named George McWilliam is said to have been wounded in the arm and hip. A blacksmith, whose name was not learned, was reported shot through the leg. There were many narrow escapes from death. A telegram from Olean states that the murderers have been captured and taken to the County Jail at Little Valley.

THE GAZETTE.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 15.

YOUNG VANDERBILT.

Gossip About the Rumored Recent Reverses Met by the Millionaire's Son.

The Assertions of Paterfamilias Discredited—The Story of a Veteran Broker.

Squeezed by the Bears.
THE STORY OF W. K. VANDERBILT'S LOSSES.

New York, Oct. 15.—Notwithstanding the denial of Mr. William H. Vanderbilt of the rumored heavy losses of his son, it is believed on the street that while Mr. William K. Vanderbilt may not be on the verge of insolvency, he has undoubtedly suffered severe losses of late in stock speculations. It has been rumored in social and club circles for two months past that Mr. William K. Vanderbilt had lost so heavily in speculation in the street as to be obliged to retrench. The prestige gained by the great ball last April and their handsome house and position made Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt prominent persons at Newport, and society looked forward to a succession of brilliant entertainments, not alone at Newport, but during the coming winter in their Fifth Avenue mansion in this city. These expectations were not realized, and seven weeks before the close of the season the New port house was shut up, and the family removed to Islip. This was soon followed by the report that Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt would not open their Fifth Avenue house this fall, but would go abroad for the winter. This action gave rise to the rumor that W. K. Vanderbilt had lost heavily and was compelled to curtail expenses. On the street this report occasioned very little surprise. A prominent broker, having business and social relations with the family, said: "William K. has always been a bold speculator, and while profiting by his transactions, has several times suffered so severely as to be obliged to appeal to his father for help. Last January, it is generally understood on the street, Mr. K. induced Mr. Henry N. Smith to join him in an extensive bull speculation, at Lake Shore, Lackawanna and St. Paul stocks. The enterprise did not prove a success in the face of a generally declining market. The more they loaded up, the less market there seemed to be on which to unload. Finally Mr. Smith realized that it was useless to continue the campaign further. He went to St. Louis during the summer to see William H. Vanderbilt and publicly rode out with him. Mr. Smith then tried to induce Mr. Vanderbilt to come to the assistance of W. K. and himself, but Mr. Vanderbilt said he did not desire to enter the market, and Mr. Smith then returned to the street and determined to say nothing about all hazards. He sold out his holding, and took the other side of the market, and today is engineering a bear movement. W. K. was thus left alone with his burden. He found himself unable to carry it, and for several weeks has been engaged in selling out. His losses must be heavy, and I think it is unlikely that, as generally reported, he has been obliged to mortgage his house."

The frequent conferences between Mr. Smith and Mr. W. H. Vanderbilt have led many to believe that the latter had indeed, as reported, clung to come to the rescue of his son. It was an experience through which his father had passed. The Commodore, his father, enjoyed the sport of occasionally shaking out his sons when they engaged in stock speculation.

The Lyceum Theater Fire.

CIRCA, Oct. 15.—The fire which destroyed the Lyceum Theater at an early hour Saturday, is supposed to have originated from an incendiary's torch. Thomas Grenier, wife, child and Mrs. Sibley and daughter, who occupied a portion of the building as sleeping apartments, were rescued in their nightclothes while Harry Perry, an employee, was suffocated by the smoke. His remains were recovered after the flames had been extinguished. John Carney, a fireman, fell from a ladder to the sidewalk, receiving painful but not fatal injuries. McGranahan, the actress, died Saturday at her home in Cohasset, after a long illness. Her husband and children were at her bedside.
